Applicants' filing of this RCE on 7/18/03 is acknowledged.

Allowed Claims:

Claims 15-17 are allowed.

New Matter:

Claims 1, 2, and 6-14 are rejected under the first paragraph of 35 USC 112 and 35 USC 132 as the specification as originally filed does not provide support for the invention as is now claimed.

The terms for the defined first fly ash of "having a predominant particle size of greater than about 10 microns" is new matter not supported by the original disclosure. Note that the applicants do have support for a particle size of up to about 10 microns for one type of fly ash but not support for the larger ash fraction range of greater than about 10 microns.

The applicants have referred the examiner to page 7, table 1 and page 8, table 2 which states Fly ash (large size fraction) and Fly ash (small size fraction). Yet, none of these provides literal support for the large size fraction range of greater than 10 microns which would appear to be new matter.

No other issues remain in this application.
